UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

-----oo0oo-----

MARK THOMSEN, DAWN J. THOMSEN,

NO. 2:09-CV-01108 FCD/EFB

Plaintiffs,

v.

MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

SACRAMENTO METROPOLITAN FIRE
DISTRICT; LOCAL 522 UNION; PAT
MONAHAN, an individual; BRIAN
RICE, an individual; MATT
KELLEY, an individual; GREG GRENADES, an individual; and DOES 1-50, inclusive,

Defendants.

-----oo0oo-----

This matter is before the court on defendants Sacramento
Metropolitan Fire District's (the "District") and Local 522 Union, Pat Monahan, and Brian Rice's (collectively, the "Union") motions to dismiss plaintiffs' complaint pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6).<sup>1</sup> Plaintiffs Mark Thomsen

<sup>1</sup> The court notes that while the docket reflects the motion to dismiss is brought by Attorneys for Sacramento Metropolitan Fire District, Matt Kelley, and Greg Granados, the motion itself clarifies that it is brought solely by the District.

1 ("plaintiff") and Dawn J. Thomsen ("Mrs. Thomsen") oppose the 2 motions. For the reasons set forth below,<sup>2</sup> defendants' motions 3 to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) are GRANTED in part and 4 DENIED in part.

5 BACKGROUND

6 At all relevant times, plaintiff was employed by the 7 Sacramento Metropolitan Fire District, which operates in the 8 County of Sacramento. (Pls.' 2d Am. Compl. ("SAC"), filed Apr.
9 22, 2009, [Docket # 1-3], ¶ 1.) Plaintiff alleges in February 10 2006, Fire Chief Don Mette ("Mette") assigned him to the 11 District's Special Investigations Unit. (Id. ¶ 11.) Plaintiff 12 claims that in this capacity he worked under the District's 13 General Counsel Dick Margarita ("Margarita"), assisted with 14 personnel investigations, and conducted background checks on 15 persons seeking employment with the District. (Id.)

16 Plaintiff alleges that in late September 2006, he received 17 an email from a previous female employee (the "former employee") 18 stating that she had been wrongfully terminated. (Id. ¶ 15.)
19 Plaintiff alleges that Margarita instructed him to contact the 20 former employee and have her discuss the matter with Margarita, 21 plaintiff, and Pat Monahan ("Monahan"). (Id.) Plaintiff further 22 alleges that Mette and Margarita utilized Jeff Rinek ("Rinek") to 23 aid the investigation. (Id. ¶ 16.) Plaintiff claims that as a 24 result of this investigation, Mette advised the Board of 25 Directors to approve a settlement with the former employee.

27 <sup>2</sup> Because oral argument will not be of material 28 assistance, the court orders this matter submitted on the briefs.
E.D. Cal. Local Rule 78-230(h).

1 (Id.) Around September 28, 2006, plaintiff claims he was asked 2 to attend a late-night meeting at which he was advised to keep 3 silent on the issue. (Id. ¶ 17.) Plaintiff further claims that 4 around the time of the meeting, Mette accused him of discussing 5 the former employee's complaint with others and ordered him to 6 keep the issue secret. (Id. ¶ 19.)

7 Within a few days of the meeting, plaintiff claims he was 8 removed from the Special Investigations Unit, allegedly because 9 he had violated Mette's order not to discuss the former 10 employee's complaint. (Id. ¶ 20.) Plaintiff claims that shortly 11 thereafter, he was assigned to a different shift and was told he 12 would return to the day shift "once tempers cooled." (Id. ¶ 21.)
13 Plaintiff alleges that around October or November 2006, he met 14 with the Board of Directors to discuss his concern that the 15 former employee's case was not properly investigated. (Id. ¶ 16 22.) Plaintiff claims that around mid to late November 2006, he 17 learned that the former employee had received a settlement of 18 over one-half million dollars. (Id. ¶ 23.) Plaintiff claims 19 that he made inquiries as to why the former employee's complaint 20 had not resulted in an outside investigation. (Id. ¶ 24.)

21 On December 2, 2006, plaintiff alleges he was placed on 22 administrative leave pending an investigation into an allegation 23 that plaintiff committed a felony by altering a patient's report.
24 (Id. ¶ 25.) Plaintiff contends that he was put on leave as a 25 result of his investigation into the former employee's situation.
26 (Id. ¶ 26.) Plaintiff claims that Rinek performed the 27 investigation with regard to plaintiff's alleged felony, but that 28 Mette and Margarita decided the outcome of this investigation.

1 (Id. ¶ 27.) Local 522 Union ("Union") provided plaintiff with an 2 attorney to aid with issues pertaining to his administrative 3 leave. (Id. ¶ 28.) Plaintiff alleges the attorney refused to 4 act without first getting approval from Monahan and Brian Rice
5 ("Rice"). (Id.) While on administrative leave, plaintiff
6 alleges he was asked to attend a meeting on December 14, 2006, 7 with the President and Vice President of the Union. (Id. ¶ 29.)
8 Plaintiff claims that during the meeting he was told he would be 9 fired if he continued to ask questions about the former employee 10 and continued to "push" with regard to his pending disciplinary 11 case. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges that the Union officials were 12 acting at the behest of Margarita and Mette. (Id.)

13 On December 31, 2006, an article appeared in the Sacramento 14 Bee, reporting that Margarita had signed an affidavit in a 15 superior court action, alleging that plaintiff had committed a 16 felony by materially altering a public report. (Id. ¶ 30.)
17 Plaintiff claims he had not received a Notice of Intent to 18 Discipline at this time, and as far as he knew, an investigation
19 of the alleged felony had never been completed. (Id.)

20 On January 2, 2007, plaintiff alleges he retained new 21 counsel because of the conflict of interest between the Union's 22 counsel and the investigation into the former employee's 23 termination. (Id. ¶ 31.) Around the same time, plaintiff claims 24 his counsel notified every Board member of their duties to 25 plaintiff. (Id. ¶ 32.) Plaintiff also alleges he and his 26 counsel requested the right to speak about the investigation and 27 plaintiff's administrative leave, which was noted on the Board of 28 Director's agenda. (Id.)

1 Plaintiff also sent a confidential letter to the Board, 2 indicating his suspicions of a cover-up by Mette, Margarita, 3 Chavez, Monahan, and Rice. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges that Greg 4 Grenados ("Grenados") breached plaintiff's confidence by 5 informing Mette and Margarita of plaintiff's suspicions regarding 6 the investigation and circumstances surrounding his alleged 7 felony. (Id.) Subsequently, plaintiff notified the Attorney 8 General about the District's lack of investigation into the 9 former employee's situation. (Id. ¶ 33.) Plaintiff claims that 10 on or about January 17, 2007, four to six armed men knocked 11 forcefully on his residential door. (Id. ¶ 34.) Plaintiff 12 alleges these armed men were employed by the District and were 13 directed by Margarita and/or Mette to instill terror on 14 plaintiff's family. (Id.)

15 On February 14, 2007, plaintiff was advised of the 16 District's intent to dismiss plaintiff. (Id. ¶ 35.) On March 17 23, 2007, plaintiff and his counsel attended a pre-disciplinary 18 hearing, conducted by Deputy Chief Geoffrey Miller. (Id. ¶ 36.)
19 Plaintiff and his attorney gave Deputy Chief Miller a twelve page 20 letter with six attachments, all of which allegedly demonstrated 21 that plaintiff's termination was unsupported by facts or law.
22 (Id.) Plaintiff claims that Mette and Margarita ignored his 23 letter, and notified him through a letter dated March 26, 2007, 24 that he was terminated as of that date. (Id. ¶ 37.) Plaintiff 25 alleges that sometime thereafter, Mette and Margarita learned 26 that several District employees had submitted false documents 27 containing allegedly false college degrees, but that these 28 individuals only received reduced pay and were not terminated.

1 (Id. ¶ 38.)

2 Plaintiff claims that, for the purpose of getting his job
3 back, he initiated and won an arbitration proceeding. (Id. ¶ 39.)
4 Shortly thereafter in November, 2008, plaintiff was informed that 5 his employment would be suspended. (Id. ¶ 40.) Plaintiff then 6 filed a complaint with the District, which was denied on August
7 24, 2007. (Id. ¶¶ 39-41.)

8 Finally, plaintiff alleges that he filed a complaint with 9 the DFEH regarding his November 2008 suspension, which resulted 10 in his receipt of a right-to-sue notice against the District.
11 (Id. ¶ 42.) Plaintiffs filed a Complaint in the Superior Court 12 of California for the County of Sacramento on February 22, 2008.
13 The action was removed to this court on April 22, 2009.

14 STANDARD

15 On a motion to dismiss, the allegations of the complaint
16 must be accepted as true. Cruz v. Beto, 405 U.S. 319, 322 17 (1972). The court is bound to give the plaintiff the benefit of 18 every reasonable inference to be drawn from the "well-pleaded" 19 allegations of the complaint. Retail Clerks Int'l Ass'n v.
20 Schermerhorn, 373 U.S. 746, 753 n.6 (1963). Thus, the plaintiff 21 need not necessarily plead a particular fact if that fact is a 22 reasonable inference from facts properly alleged. See id.

23 Nevertheless, it is inappropriate to assume that the 24 plaintiff "can prove facts which it has not alleged or that the 25 defendants have violated the . . . laws in ways that have not 26 been alleged." Associated Gen. Contractors of Calif., Inc. v.
27 Calif. State Council of Carpenters, 459 U.S. 519, 526 (1983).
28 Moreover, the court "need not assume the truth of legal

1 conclusions cast in the form of factual allegations." United 2 States ex rel. Chunie v. Ringrose, 788 F.2d 638, 643 n.2 (9th
3 Cir. 1986). Indeed, "[t]hreadbare recitals of the elements of a 4 cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements, do not 5 suffice." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. 1937, 1949 (2009)(citing 6 Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007)).

7 In ruling upon a motion to dismiss, the court may consider 8 only the complaint, any exhibits thereto, and matters which may 9 be judicially noticed pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 201.
10 See Mir v. Little Co. of Mary Hospital, 844 F.2d 646, 649 (9th 11 Cir. 1988); Isuzu Motors Ltd. v. Consumers Union of United 12 States, Inc., 12 F. Supp.2d 1035, 1042 (C.D. Cal. 1998).

13 Ultimately, the court may not dismiss a complaint in which 14 the plaintiff alleged enough facts to "state a claim to relief 15 that is plausible on its face." Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. at 1949 16 (citing Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 17 (2007)). Only where a plaintiff has failed to "nudge [his or 18 her] claims across the line from conceivable to plausible," is 19 the complaint properly dismissed. Id. at 1952. When there are 20 well-pleaded factual allegations, "a court should assume their 21 veracity and then determine whether they plausibly give rise to 22 an entitlement to relief." Id. at 1950.

23 ANALYSIS

24 I. Plaintiffs' Claims against the Union

25 Plaintiffs assert twelve causes of action against the Union.
26 All but one of the claims are asserted individually by plaintiff 27 Mark Thomsen. The allegations of wrongdoing by the Union
28 include: breach of an implied covenant of good faith and fair

1 dealing, breach of contract, negligence, violation of Government 2 Code § 820, declaratory relief for attorney's fees under 3 Government Code § 996.4, violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1983, and 4 breach of the duty of fair representation. In addition, 5 plaintiff asserts claims against Monahan and Rice, as agents of 6 the Union, which include negligence, negligent infliction of 7 emotional distress, intentional infliction of emotional distress, 8 violation of Government Code § 820, civil conspiracy, and 9 violation of Government Code § 19683. Mrs. Thomson also brings 10 an individual claim against all defendants for loss of 11 consortium.

12 A. Preemption

13 The Union moves to dismiss claims against the Union and its 14 officers or officials, arguing that seven of plaintiffs' twelve 15 claims are preempted by § 301 of the Labor Management Relations
16 Act (the "LMRA"), subsumed by the duty of fair representation 17 claim, or both.<sup>3</sup> Therefore, the Union asserts that these claims 18 must be dismissed.

19 State law claims may be preempted by the LMRA where 20 adjudication of such claims would require interpretation of the 21 collective bargaining agreement between the employer and the 22 labor organization. See Valles v. Ivy Hill Corp., 410 F.3d 1071, 23 1075 (9th Cir. 2005); Balcorta v. Twentieth Century-Fox Film

24
25 <sup>3</sup> The court notes that although the Union brings its 26 preemption argument under the heading of "All Claims Are 27 Preempted by the Duty of Fair Representation," the Union then 28 argues that the LRMA § 301 preempts plaintiff's claims against the Union and its officers. However, § 301 preemption is distinct from duty of fair representation preemption. See Phillips, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12008, at *10. As such, the court conducts an analysis for both methods of preemption.

1 Corp., 208 F.3d 1102, 1108 (9th Cir. 2000). "Section 301 of the 2 LMRA provides federal jurisdiction over '[s]uits for violation of 3 contracts between an employer and a labor organization.' A suit
4 for breach of a collective bargaining agreement is governed 5 exclusively by federal law under Section 301." Smith v. Pac.
6 Bell Tel. Co., No. CV-F-06-1756 OWW/DLB, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7 31699 (E.D. Cal. April 13, 2007). "[T]he Supreme Court has 8 interpreted [§ 301] to compel the complete preemption of state 9 law claims brought to enforce collective bargaining agreements."
10 Valles, 410 F.3d at 1075 (citing Avco Corp v. Aero Lodge No. 735, 11 390 U.S. 557, 560 (1968)). The Ninth Circuit has further noted 12 that "[a]lthough the language of § 301 is limited to 'suits for 13 violation of contracts,' courts have concluded that, in order to 14 give the proper range to § 301's policies of promoting 15 arbitration and the uniform interpretation of collective 16 bargaining provisions, § 301 'complete preemption' must be 17 construed to cover 'most state-law actions that require 18 interpretation of labor agreements.'" Balcorta, 208 F.3d at 1108 19 (citing Associated Builders & Contractors, Inc. v. Local 302
20 Int'l Bhd. of Elec. Workers, 109 F.3d 1353, 1356 (9th Cir. 1997); 21 see also Valles, 410 F.3d at 1075 ("[T]he Supreme Court has 22 expanded § 301 preemption to include cases the resolution of 23 which is substantially dependent upon the analysis of the terms 24 of a collective bargaining agreement.") (internal citations 25 omitted).

26 "To effectuate the goals of Section 301, preemption should 27 be applied only to 'state laws purporting to determine questions 28 relating to what the parties to a labor agreement agreed, and

1 what legal consequences flow from breaches of that agreement' and 2 to tort suits which allege 'breaches of duties assumed in 3 collective bargaining agreements.'" Livadas v. Bradshaw, 512
4 U.S. 107, 114 S. Ct. 2068 (1994). "A claim brought in state 5 court on the basis of a state-law right that is 'independent of 6 rights under the collective-bargaining agreement,' will not be 7 preempted, even if 'a grievance arising from "precisely the same 8 set of facts" could be pursued.'" Valles, 410 F.3d at 1076; see 9 also Townsell v. Ralphs Grocery Co., No. 09 CV 0793 JM (AJB),
10 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 46601, *10 (S.D. Cal. June 3, 2009) 11 (stating "the LMRA preempts state law claims which are 12 'substantially dependent on the analysis of the terms of' the 13 collective bargaining agreement and to the extent claims against 14 the Union rest on such analysis, § 301 would predominate").

15 Furthermore, state law claims may also be subsumed under 16 federal law<sup>4</sup> by plaintiff's duty of fair representation claim.
17 "The duty of fair representation is a corollary of the union's 18 status as the exclusive representative of all employees in a 19 bargaining unit." Phillips v. Int'l Union of Operating 20 Engineers, No. C-96-0363-VRW, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12008, *11
21 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 7, 1996) (citing Vaca v. Sipes, 386 U.S. 171, 182 22 (1967)). "It is judicially created from § 9(a) of the [National 23 Labor Relations Act (the "NLRA")] , which requires a union 'to

25 <sup>4</sup> Defendant Union's motion, which is far from a model of 26 clarity, broadly contends that plaintiffs' claims are preempted 27 by the duty of fair representation. However, defendant fails to 28 identify whether it is asserting preemption under state or federal law. Defendant's legal argument is of little help in offering any guidance on this issue. As such, the court addresses both issues.

1 serve the interests of all members without hostility or 2 discrimination toward any, to exercise its discretion with 3 complete good faith and honesty, and to avoid arbitration.'" Id.
4 "Section 9(a) of the Labor Management Relations Act empowers a 5 union to act as the exclusive bargaining agent of all employees 6 in collective bargaining. Cash v. Chevron Corp., 1999 U.S. Dist.
7 LEXIS 20709, *4 (N.D. Cal. 1999); 29 U.S.C. § 159(a). "The 8 duties related to this representation are defined solely by 9 federal law" and apply to all representational activity 10 undertaken by the union." Id.

11 Furthermore, the "federal duty of fair representation 12 preempts the application of state substantive law which attempts 13 to regulate conduct that falls within the union's duty to 14 represent its members." Id. at *5. Indeed, "[s]tate law claims 15 are preempted 'whenever a plaintiff's claims invoke rights 16 derived from a union's duty of fair representation.'" Id. at *6 17 (emphasis in original); see also Richardson v. United 18 Steelworkers of America, 864 F.2d 1162, 1168 (holding that 19 because plaintiff's allege that the Union breached a duty arising 20 from its status as their exclusive collective bargaining agent 21 pursuant to the NLRA, Vaca requires this duty to be defined by 22 federal law).

23 Moreover, to the extent plaintiffs asserts claims implicates 24 the duty of fair representation, under California state law, the 25 Public Employment Relations Board ("PERB") has exclusive 26 jurisdiction pursuant to the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act ("MMBA").
27 The MMBA "imposes on local public entities a duty to meet and 28 confer in good faith with representatives of recognized employee

1 organizations, in order to reach binding agreements governing 2 wages, hours, and working conditions of the agencies' employees."
3 Coachella Valley Mosquito v. California Public Employment 4 Relations Board, 35 Cal. 4th 1072, 1083. In 2000, the 5 legislature incorporated the MMBA within the PERB's jurisdiction.
6 Id. at 1085. "In determining whether conduct in a given case 7 could give rise to an unfair practice claim, the court must 8 construe the activity broadly." Personnel Com. v. Barstow 9 Unified School Dist., 43 Cal. App. 4th 871 (1996).

10 1. Breach of Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair
11 Dealing

12 Plaintiff's third cause of action is for breach of implied 13 covenant of good faith and fair dealing against the Union. "In 14 California, a claim for the breach of the implied covenant of 15 good faith and fair dealing 'is necessarily based on the 16 existence of an underlying contractual relationship, and the 17 essence of the covenant is that neither party to the contract 18 will do anything which would deprive the other of the benefits of 19 the contract.'" Marbley v. Kaiser Permanente Med. Group, Inc., 20 No. C 09-2484 JF (PVT), 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61957 (N.D. Cal.
21 July 20, 2009) (citations omitted). "The theory underlying a 22 claim for breach of the implied covenant was developed to protect 23 employees who lacked the job security created by a collective 24 bargaining agreement." Id. Therefore, "[i]ndividuals protected 25 by a collective bargaining agreement often need not resort to 26 state law claims to obtain relief. As a result, 'section 301 27 preempts the California state cause of action for breach of the 28 implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing when an employee

1 enjoys comparable job security under a collective bargaining
2 agreement.' Marbley, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61957, at *11
3 (quoting Milne Employees Ass'n v. Sun Carriers, 960 F.2d 1401, 4 1411 (9th Cir. 1991)); see also Truex v. Garrett Freightlines, 5 Inc., 784 F.2d 1347, 1349-52 (9th Cir. 1985) (holding section 301
6 preempts claims for intentional infliction of emotional distress 7 and breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing).

8 Plaintiff is an individual protected by a collective 9 bargaining agreement and thus, any allegation that the Union's 10 conduct violated an employment agreement will require 11 interpretation of the agreement. See Marbley, 2009 U.S. Dist.
12 LEXIS 61957, at *11. As such, Section 301 preempts his state law 13 claim for breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair 14 dealing.

15 Furthermore, plaintiff's third cause of action is subsumed 16 by the Union's duty of fair representation under federal and 17 state law. Plaintiff alleges that the Union breached the implied 18 covenant of good faith and fair dealing contained in the 19 employment agreement; specifically, plaintiff contends that the 20 employment agreement "obligated defendants to perform the terms 21 and conditions of the agreement fairly and in good faith."
22 Because plaintiff bases his cause of action on the Union's duties 23 as defined by the employment agreement, plaintiff's claim for 24 breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing is 25 subsumed by the Union's duty of fair representation.

27 /////

28 /////

1                   2.    Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress

2           Plaintiff's fifth cause of action is for negligent
3   infliction of emotional distress against Monahan and Rice.<sup>5</sup> 4   "Section 301 preemption of emotional distress claims depends on 5   whether the CBA governs the alleged discriminatory behavior.
6   When the CBA does govern the behavior, and the underlying claims 7   are preempted, the emotional distress claims are also preempted."
8   Martinez v. Lucky Stores, No. C 97-4685 FMS, 1998 U.S. Dist.
9   LEXIS 14740, *5-6 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 18, 1998); see also Cook v.
10 Lindsay Olive Growers, 911 F.2d 233, 239-40 (9th Cir. 1990). "In 11 contrast, when the underlying claim is not preempted, neither is 12 the claim for emotional distress." Martinez, 1998 U.S. Dist.
13 LEXIS 14740, at *6; see Perugini v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 935
14 F.2d 1083, 1089 ("To the extent that resolution of the negligent
15 infliction of emotional distress claims requires interpretation 16 of the CBA, these claims are preempted by section 301.").
17 Because disciplinary actions and letters of warning are governed 18 by the collective bargaining agreement, resolution of claims 19 arising from such alleged conduct necessarily entails examination 20 and interpretation of the agreement, thereby preempting those 21 claims. Stallcop v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals, 820 F.2d 1044, 22 1049 (1987).

23           Plaintiff's complaint details various disciplinary actions 24 taken against him by defendants Monahan, Rice, Kelly, and 25 Granados, including being put on leave, receipt of letters of 26

27           <sup>5</sup> This claim is also brought against defendants Kelly and 28 Granados. However, as set forth above these individual defendants have not filed a motion to dismiss.

1 intent to terminate, a pre-disciplinary hearing, and his 2 discharge. Because these allegations arise out of the alleged 3 disciplinary actions against him and because disciplinary actions
4 and letters of warning are governed by the collective bargaining
5 agreement, resolution of plaintiff's claims require examination
6 and interpretation of the agreement. As such, plaintiff's claim 7 for negligent infliction of emotional distress is preempted by § 8 301 of the LMRA.

9 Furthermore, plaintiff's fifth cause of action is also 10 subsumed by the Union's duty of fair representation under federal 11 and state law. Plaintiff specifically alleges that: (1) Monahan 12 and Rice owed a duty to be part of an unbiased investigation into 13 any wrongdoing alleged against plaintiff; (2) Kelly owed a duty 14 to provide plaintiff with a forum to address the allegations 15 against him; and (3) Grenados owed plaintiff a duty to keep 16 information provided to him in confidence. Each of these alleged 17 duties constitute "representational activity." See Cash, 1999 18 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20709, at *4; see also Richardson, 864 F.2d at 19 1167 ("plaintiffs did not allege any breach of a state tort duty 20 that exists independently of the NLRA-established collective 21 bargaining relationship, which is the central concern of the 22 NLRA"). Because plaintiff alleged that the Union members 23 breached a duty that arose from the Union's status as the 24 exclusive bargaining agent, his claim for negligent infliction of 25 emotional distress is subsumed into claims that the Union 26 violated its duty of fair representation.

28 /////

1                   3. Breach of Contract

2           Plaintiff's seventh cause of action is for breach of 3 contract against the Union. "Section 301 of the LMRA provides 4 federal jurisdiction over '[s]uits for violation of contracts
5 between an employer and a labor organization.' A suit for breach 6 of a collective bargaining agreement is governed exclusively by 7 federal law under Section 301." Smith, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8 31699, at *14-15; see also Balcorta, 208 F.3d at 1108 ("The 9 pre-emptive force of § 301 is so powerful as to displace entirely 10 any state cause of action for violation of contracts between an 11 employer and a labor organization.") (internal quotations 12 omitted). Plaintiff's claim for breach of contract is based on 13 the "contract of employment" with defendants. (Compl. ¶ 82.) As 14 such, any resolution of this claim depends on an analysis of the 15 collective bargaining agreement and is thus preempted under § 16 301.

17           Further, plaintiff's claim is also subsumed by claims 18 regarding the Union's duty of fair representation because 19 plaintiff alleges that the Union breached its contract by failing 20 to provide him with "competent and unbiased counsel."

21                   4. Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress

22           Plaintiff's eighth cause of action is for intentional 23 infliction of emotional distress against Monahan and Rice.<sup>6</sup> "The 24 Ninth Circuit has held that state tort claims for IIED are 25 preempted [by the LMRA] under some circumstances" where the 26 evaluation of the claim is "inextricably intertwined with

28           <sup>6</sup> Plaintiff also brings this claim against the District and other individual defendants.

1 consideration of the terms of a labor contract." Lappin v.
2 Laidlaw Transit, 179 F. Supp. 2d 1111, 1125 (N.D. Cal. 2001)
3 (quoting Allis-Chalmers Corp. v. Lueck, 471 U.S. 202, 213 4 (1985)). For instance, the Ninth Circuit has concluded that 5 "state tort claims for intentional infliction of emotional 6 distress are preempted when they arise out of the employee's 7 discharge or the conduct of the defendants in the investigatory
8 proceedings leading up to the discharge." Scott v. Machinists 9 Automotive Trades Dist. Lodge No. 190, 827 F.2d 589 (9th Cir.
10 1987). Nevertheless, when "a claim does not require 11 interpretation of the CBA, on the other hand, preemption is not 12 appropriate." Lappin, 179 F. Supp. 2d at 1125.

13 Here, plaintiff appears to base his intentional infliction
14 of emotional distress claim on his termination. Though plaintiff 15 several times refers to various "actions" or "acts" of defendants 16 without further specificity, he does allege that the 17 "constructive termination by defendants" was done with an intent 18 to cause injury to plaintiff. (Compl. at ¶ 96.) To the extent 19 that plaintiff's claim is founded upon the events surrounding and 20 including his termination, plaintiff's claim requires 21 interpretation of the CBA and is thus preempted by § 301.

22 Further, to the extent that plaintiff's claim encompasses 23 his previous allegations that the individual defendants failed to 24 perform their representative duties as members of the Union, the 25 court finds this claim subsumed by claims regarding the Union's 26 duty of fair representation.

27 /////

28 /////

1                   5. Negligence

2                   Plaintiff's ninth cause of action is against all defendants 3 for negligence. With respect to the Union, plaintiff alleges 4 that Monahan and Rice owed plaintiff a duty to be part of an 5 unbiased investigation.

6                   "State law negligence claims are preempted if the duty 7 relied on is created by a collective bargaining agreement and 8 without existence independent of the agreement." Ward v. Circus 9 Circus Casinos, Inc., 473 F.3d 994, 999 (9th Cir. 2007); see also 10 Jones v. Bayer Healthcare LLC, No. 08-2219 SC, 2008 U.S. Dist.
11 LEXIS 61737, *15-16 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 12, 2008) (holding that 12 plaintiff's negligence claim was preempted by the LMRA because 13 the various duties plaintiff accused defendants of breaching were 14 determined by the collective bargaining agreement).
15 Nevertheless, "'non-negotiable state-law rights . . . independent 16 of any right established by contract' are not preempted." Hayden 17 v. Reickerd, 957 F.2d 1506, 1509 (9th Cir. 1991) (citations 18 omitted).

19                   Plaintiff's allegations that Monahan and Rice owed plaintiff 20 a duty to be part of an unbiased investigation arises from the 21 collective bargaining agreement. Plaintiff fails to make any 22 argument or reference any legal authority that this alleged duty 23 is independent of any right established by contract or is a non-24 negotiable state-law right. Accordingly, plaintiff's negligence
25 claim is preempted by § 301. For the same reasons, the court 26 also finds that plaintiff's negligence claim is subsumed by the 27 Union's duty of fair representation.

28                   /////

1                   6. Civil Conspiracy

2           Plaintiff's fourteenth cause of action is for civil 3 conspiracy against Monahan and Rice; specifically, plaintiff
4 alleges that these defendants, along with defendant Kelly, 5 conspired to find a way to terminate plaintiff for the purpose of 6 preventing his investigation into the former employee.

7           "The key to determining the scope of preemption under 8 section 301 is not how the complaint is framed, but whether the 9 claims can be resolved only by interpreting the terms of the 10 collective bargaining agreement." Raptopoulos v. WS, Inc., 738
11 F. Supp. 394, 396 (D. Or. 1990). With respect to a conspiracy 12 claim, if resolution of the claim cannot be addressed without 13 examining the process of collective bargaining and the collective 14 bargaining agreement, such a claim is preempted by Section 301.
15 Id. at 396-97 (holding that resolution of the plaintiff's claims 16 of conspiracy and interference with contract could not be 17 addressed without examining the process of collective bargaining 18 and the collective bargaining agreement because an evaluation of 19 these claims required an analysis of the preferential hiring list 20 in the collective bargaining agreement and posed a significant 21 threat to the collective bargaining process).

22           Plaintiff's civil conspiracy claim is based upon his 23 allegation that defendants conspired to terminate in order to 24 prevent his investigation into the former employee. In his 25 complaint, plaintiff alleges that his termination is controlled 26 by the employment agreement, and indeed predicates several causes 27 of action upon this. As such, plaintiff's conspiracy claim 28

1 depends upon interpretation of the terms of the collective 2 bargaining agreement and is preempted by Section 301.<sup>7</sup>

3 B. Statute of Limitations/Exhaustion

4 1. Claims Preempted by Federal Labor Law

5 The Supreme Court has held that actions under the LMRA are 6 governed by the six-month statute of limitations set out in § 7 10(b) of the National Labor Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. § 160(b).
8 DelCostello v. Teamsters, 462 U.S. 151, 163-64 (1983).

9 Furthermore, claims preempted by Section 301 are subject to the 10 six month statute of limitations. Madison v. Motion Picture Set 11 Painters & Sign Writers Local 729, 132 F. Supp. 2d 1244, 1261
12 (C.D. Cal. 2000); see also Cook v. Lindsay Olive Growers, 911 13 F.2d 233, 236 (9th Cir. 1990) ("The district court was correct in 14 applying a six-month statute of limitations to any of 15 [plaintiff's] claims which were preempted by § 301"). Claims 16 outside of that six-month period are subject to dismissal.
17 DelCostello, 462 U.S. at 155.<sup>8</sup>

18 With respect to duty of fair representation claims, 19 "DelCostello's six month statute of limitations has been applied 20 consistently in fair representation cases." Madison v. Motion
21 Picture Set Painters & Sign Writers Local 729, 132 F. Supp. 2d 22

23 <sup>7</sup> Although plaintiff contends that his civil conspiracy 24 cause of action is not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the 25 PERB, the court need not address this issue as it is preempted under federal law.

26 <sup>8</sup> The applicable statute of limitations may be tolled 27 under either the doctrine of equitable tolling or the doctrine of 28 equitable estoppel. Huseman v. Icicle Seafoods, Inc., 471 F.3d 1116, 1120 (9th Cir. 2006). However, plaintiff fails to argue any equitable considerations with respect to preemption by federal labor law.

1 1244, 1260 (C.D. Cal. 2000). Indeed, “[u]niformity and 2 predictability suggest all unfair representation claims should be 3 governed by the same statute of limitations.” Cantrell v. Int’l
4 Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 2021, 32 F.3d 465, 467 5 (10th Cir. 1994). “In a duty of fair representation case, the 6 six-month statute of limitations begins to run ‘when an employee 7 knows or should know of the alleged breach of duty of fair 8 representation by a union.” Madison, 132 F. Supp. at 1260.

9 Plaintiff’s claims all arise out of the alleged failure of 10 the Union to provide him with competent counsel and the events 11 surrounding his attempted termination. Plaintiff became aware of 12 the alleged breach of duty of fair representation by the Union 13 when he retained new counsel in January 2, 2007. Further, 14 plaintiff received his termination letter on or about March 26, 15 2007. However, plaintiff did not file his complaint in state 16 court until February 22, 2008, almost a year after these events.
17 Therefore, plaintiff’s claims brought under the LMRA, which are 18 preempted by § 301, are barred because the applicable statute of 19 limitations period had expired by the time he filed his 20 complaint.<sup>9</sup>

21 2. Claims Subject to PERB exclusive jurisdiction

22 The PERB has the exclusive jurisdiction “to make the initial 23 determination as to whether the charges of unfair practices are 24 justified, and, if so, what remedy is necessary.” (Cal. Gov.

26 <sup>9</sup> At this point the plaintiff makes no clear allegation 27 in his Second Amended Complaint that the claims against the Union 28 are based upon his November, 2008 suspension. Plaintiff is granted leave to amend his complaint to the extent that he can allege facts that are not preempted by § 301, and not subject to the statute of limitations.

1 Code. § 3541.5). Accordingly, the California Supreme Court has 2 held that "a party must exhaust administrative remedies before
3 resorting to the courts." Coachella Valley, 35 Cal. 4th at 1080 4 (citing Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal, 17 Cal. 2d 280, 5 292 (1941)).

6 The language utilized by the state legislature in 7 constructing the statute of limitations period for the PERB is 8 analogous to the wording of the statute of limitations period set 9 out in § 10(b) of the National Labor Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. § 10 160(b). "Any employee, employee organization, or employer shall 11 have the right to file an unfair practice charge, except that the 12 board shall not... [¶] ... [i]ssue a complaint in respect of any 13 charge based upon an alleged unfair practice occurring more than 14 six months prior to the filing of the charge." Coachella Valley, 15 35 Cal. 4th at 1086 (citing Cal. Gov. Code, § 3541.5, subd. (a).)

16 As set forth above, plaintiff was aware of the alleged 17 breach of duty of fair representation on January 2, 2007 when he 18 retained new counsel because of the alleged "conflict of interest 19 between the counsel the Union provided him and the investigation 20 in the former female employee's termination." (Compl. at ¶ 31).
21 The statutory period began as soon as plaintiff became aware of 22 possible unfair practices committed by his former counsel. With 23 respect to claims arising out of his attempted termination and 24 acts related to that termination, the statute of limitations 25 began running at the time he received his termination letter in 26 March 2007. Because plaintiff filed his complaint almost a year 27 later, plaintiff failed to comply with the statute of limitations 28

1 period for filing a breach of duty of fair representation claim
2 with the PERB.

3 Plaintiff does not dispute that he did not present his claim
4 to the PERB.<sup>10</sup> Rather, plaintiff argues that even if the PERB 5 does have exclusive jurisdiction over his claims that are 6 subsumed under the duty of fair representation, bringing the 7 stated claims to the PERB would have been futile, excusing him 8 from exhausting his administrative remedies before resorting to 9 the courts. Plaintiff also asserts that pursuing an 10 administrative claim would have resulted in irreparable harm.

11 To meet the futility exception requirements, "it is not 12 sufficient that a party can show what the agency's ruling would 13 be on a particular issue or defense. Rather, the party must show 14 what the agency's ruling would be on a particular case." Id.
15 Plaintiff's primary argument is that the PERB has consistently 16 refused to give individuals their choice of counsel. However, 17 this argument relates to a showing of the agency's ruling on a 18 particular issue. Significantly, plaintiff provides no argument 19 or authority to support his contention that the PERB has already 20 made a determination that would render his particular claims with 21 the administrative board futile. As such, plaintiff has failed 22 to allege sufficient facts or proffer legal argument to support 23 his futility argument.

24
25 <sup>10</sup> In the opposition, plaintiff conclusorily asserts that 26 his claims are outside of the scope of the union-employee 27 relationship, and are thus not subsumed by the duty of fair 28 representation claim. Plaintiff provides no citation to legal authority to support this blanket contention. As set forth above, the court finds that many of plaintiff's claims are subsumed by the duty of fair representation.

1 With respect to plaintiff's second asserted exception to the 2 exhaustion remedy, irreparable injury "has been applied rarely 3 and only in the clearest of cases." City and County of San 4 Francisco v. International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 5 39, 151 Cal. App. 4th 938, 948 (1st Dist. 2007); see Dep't of 6 Personnel Admin. v. Superior Court, 5 Cal. App. 4th 155, 170
7 (1992) (applying the irreparable injury exception where the state 8 was facing an "unprecedented budget crisis" and there was "the 9 great potential for irreparable harm in the nature of increased 10 layoffs"). However, an administrative remedy "is not inadequate" 11 and does not constitute irreparable injury "merely because 12 additional time and effort will be consumed by its being pursued 13 through the ordinary course of law." Omaha Indemnity Co. v.
14 Superior Court, 209 Cal. App. 3d 1266, 1269 (2d Dist. 1989).

15 Plaintiff contends that he could not wait for a 16 determination by the PERB because doing so would have prejudiced 17 his opportunity to exonerate himself. Again, plaintiff neither 18 alleges nor argues any facts to support this claim, nor does he 19 cite any legal authority to support this argument. Accordingly, 20 plaintiff has not alleged sufficient facts that would support 21 application of the narrow exception of irreparable harm.

22 As such, based upon the court's findings with respect to 23 preemption and the applicable statute of limitations, defendant 24 Union's motion to dismiss plaintiff's claims for (1) breach of 25 the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing; (2) 26 negligent infliction of emotional distress; (3) breach of 1 contract; (4) intentional infliction of emotional distress; (5)

2 negligence; and (6) civil conspiracy is GRANTED.

3 C. California Government Code § 820<sup>11</sup>

4 Plaintiff's thirteenth cause of action is for violation of 5 Government Code § 820, and is asserted against all defendants.
6 The Union contends that because it is not a public entity, the 7 individual defendants are not public employees pursuant § 820.

8 California Government Code § 820 provides, in pertinent 9 part, that "a public employee is liable for injury caused by his 10 act or omission to the same extent as a private person." This 11 statute clarifies that public employees are not immune from 12 liability for causing injury to individuals. See Zelig v. County 13 of Los Angeles, 27 Cal. 4th 1112, 1127 (2002). However, by its 14 plain language, the statute, by itself does not establish a cause 15 of action nor a basis for relief. To the extent plaintiff seeks 16 to set forth a wrongful termination claim, the allegations of the 17 complaint make clear that the Union was not the plaintiff's 18 employer and thus, did not terminate plaintiff.

19 Furthermore, pursuant to Government Code § 811.4, the term 20 "public employee" is a reference to an employee of a public 21 entity. In California, the term "public entity" encompasses the 22 State, the Regents of the University of California, a county, 23 city, district, public authority, public agency and any other 24 political subdivision or public corporation in the State. Cal.
25 Gov't Code § 811.2. The Union is not within any of these

27 <sup>11</sup> The court notes that plaintiff labels this claim as 28 "Violation of Gov. Code § 820," but in fact asserts a claim for wrongful termination against defendants as individuals, pursuant to Gov. Code § 820.

1 categories, and therefore is not a "public entity" pursuant to § 2 811.4.

3 Accordingly, the Union's motion to dismiss plaintiff's claim
4 brought pursuant to California Government Code § 820 for wrongful 5 termination is GRANTED.

6 D. Violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1983

7 Plaintiff's twenty-first cause of action is brought against 8 the Union for violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Specifically, 9 plaintiff claims that the Union violated his Sixth Amendment
10 right to counsel by providing him with biased and compromised 11 legal representation. The Union contends that the Sixth 12 Amendment applies to state criminal cases rather than civil 13 actions, and thus, plaintiff fails to state a viable claim for 14 relief.

15 "The Sixth Amendment provides for the right to effective 16 assistance of counsel, but it applies only for criminal cases, 17 not civil cases." Chang v. Rockridge Manor Condo., No. C-07-4005
18 EMC, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10595, *34 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2008)
19 (citing Pokuta v. TWA, 191 F.3d 834 (7th Cir. 1999)). Indeed, 20 "[i]t is well-settled that the Sixth Amendment right to effective 21 assistance of counsel applies only to critical stages of criminal 22 prosecutions." United States v. Bodre, 948 F.2d 28, 37 (1st Cir.
23 1991); see also Anderson v. Sheppard, 856 F.2d 741, 747-48 (6th 24 Cir. 1988) (stating "'[a] criminal defendant's right to counsel 25 arises out of the sixth amendment, and includes the right to 26 appointed counsel when necessary.' In contrast, '[a] civil 27 litigant's right to retain counsel is rooted in fifth amendment 28 notions of due process . . . '").

1 As the proceedings plaintiffs complain of are civil in 2 nature, plaintiff fails to state a claim for violation of his 3 Sixth Amendment rights. As such, the Union's motion to dismiss 4 plaintiff's twenty-first cause of action is GRANTED.

5 E. Violation of Cal. Gov. Code § 19683

6 Plaintiff's twenty-second cause of action is for violation
7 of Gov. Code § 19683 against Monahan and Rice. Defendants 8 contend that plaintiff fails to state a claim because the 9 whistle-blower statute pertains to the California State Personnel 10 Board, its officers and employees, not employees of a local Union 11 district.

12 California Government Code § 19863, the "whistle-blower 13 statute," was implemented to encourage state officers and 14 employees to investigate and report actual or suspected 15 violations of law in or related to state employment. Shoemaker 16 v. Myers, 2 Cal. App. 4th 1407, 1425 (1992). As such, § 19683 17 provides for penalties where "a public employee uses official 18 authority to harm another public employee by means other than 19 formal disciplinary proceedings, or where a nonpublic employee 20 uses official authority to harm a public employee in any way."
21 Id. at 1424. Such penalties serve the purpose of providing 22 "redress to a limited class, state employees, for harm suffered 23 by the use of official power to deter reporting of unlawful 24 government activity." Id.

25 Plaintiff concedes that Monahan is Vice President of the 26 Union and Rice is President of the Union. (Compl. ¶¶ 5-6.) As 27 set forth in the court's analysis of plaintiff's thirteenth cause 28 of action, the Union does not qualify as a public entity, nor are

1 the individual defendants "public employees" pursuant to section
2 19683. Thus, Monahan and Rice are not liable under the plain 3 language of the statute. Accordingly, defendant Union's motion 4 to dismiss plaintiff's twenty-second cause of action is GRANTED.

5 F. Declaratory Relief for Attorney's Fees

6 Plaintiff's sixteenth cause of action is for declaratory 7 relief for attorney's fees under Gov. Code § 996.4 against the 8 Union. The Union contends that because it is not a public 9 employer nor a public entity, § 996.4 is not applicable.

10 California Government Code § 996.4 provides, "If after 11 request a public entity fails or refuses to provide an employee .
12 . . with a defense against a civil action or proceeding brought 13 against him and the employee retains his own counsel to defend 14 the action or proceeding, he is entitled to recover from the 15 public entity such reasonable attorney's fees, costs, and 16 expenses as are necessarily incurred by him." (Emphasis added); 17 see DeGrassi v. City of Glendora, 207 F.3d 636, 643 (9th Cir.
18 2000) (noting that § 996,4 "applies when a public entity fails or 19 refuses to provide a requested defense") (emphasis added); see 20 also Mallari v. Home Depot U.S.A., No. C 95-00898-LEW, 1996 U.S.
21 Dist. LEXIS 3113, *11 (N.D. Cal. March 18, 1996). As set forth
22 above, pursuant to Gov. Code § 811.4, the Union is not a "puboic 23 entity." As such, plaintiff fails to set forth a claim for 24 relief under the plain language of the statute. Accordingly, the 25 Union's motion to dismiss plaintiff's claim for attorney's fees 26 pursuant to § 996.4 is GRANTED.

1           G.    Loss of Consortium

2           Mrs. Thomsen's single cause of action in the second amended 3 complaint alleges that as a result of the defendants' negligent
4 and intentional actions, her marital relationship with her 5 husband has suffered. The Union contends that all of plaintiff's 6 claims against defendant Union fail, and thus, as a derivative
7 claim, Mrs. Thomsen's loss of consortium claim must likewise 8 fail.

9           "In California, the spouse of an individual injured by a 10 third party has a cause of action for loss of consortium: the 11 loss of conjugal fellowship and sexual relations." Holt v. Am.
12 Med. Sys., 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24194, *17 (citing Rodriguez v.
13 Bethlehem Steel Corp., 12 Cal. 3d 382 (1974)). However, "loss of 14 consortium is . . . derivative of other injuries and not an 15 injury in and of itself." Lamphere v. United States, No.
16 06CV2174-LAB (JMA), 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22917, *13 (S.D. Cal.
17 March 24, 2008); see also Maffei v. Allstate Cal. Ins. Co., 412 18 F. Supp. 2d 1049, 1058 (2006) (holding that because plaintiff's 19 underlying claims were tenable, defendant's motion to dismiss 20 plaintiff's loss of consortium claim must be denied).

21           Because the court has granted defendant's motion to dismiss 22 with respect to all of the underlying causes of action upon which 23 Mrs. Thomsen bases her loss of consortium claim, the Union's 24 motion to dismiss this derivative claim is similarly GRANTED.

25           II.    Plaintiffs' Claims against the District

26           Plaintiffs asserts eighteen of his twenty-four total causes 27 of action against the District. Mrs. Thomsen also brings her 28 individual claim for loss of consortium against the District.

1 Plaintiff's claims include: wrongful termination in violation of 2 public policy, violation of § 1102.5 of the labor and employment 3 code, breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing, breach 4 of implied covenant not to terminate except for good cause, 5 negligent infliction of emotional distress, unlawful retaliation
6 in violation of FEHA, breach of contract, intentional infliction 7 of emotional distress, negligence, negligent supervision and 8 retention, violation of Government Code § 815.2, violation of 9 Government Code § 820, civil conspiracy, violation of Government 10 Code § 12653, unlawful retaliation in employment, violation of 42 11 U.S.C. § 1983 (5th Amendment procedural due process), and 12 violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1983 (1st Amendment). The District
13 contends that most of the claims are baseless or not cognizable 14 against a public entity and moves to dismiss plaintiffs' claims 15 pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6).<sup>12</sup>

16 A. Reinstatement

17 Defendant District first argues that plaintiff's complaint 18 should be dismissed in its entirety because plaintiff was 19 reinstated; therefore, defendant District argues plaintiff 20 suffered no adverse employment and thus has no standing to bring 21 causes of action based on wrongful termination.

22 "The fact of successfully grieving an adverse employment 23 action does not preclude an employee from pursuing a claim of

24 <sup>12</sup> The court notes that plaintiffs concede the fifth, 25 ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fifteenth, and 26 twenty-second causes of action to the moving parties.
27 Accordingly, defendants' motions to dismiss these claims are 28 GRANTED. The court also notes that the District does not move to dismiss plaintiff's twenty-third cause of action for violation of plaintiff's First Amendment rights. As such, the court does not address this claim herein.

1 discrimination." Fonseca v. Sysco Food Servs. Of Ariz., Inc., 2 374 F.3d 840, 848 (9th Cir. 2004); see also Plymale v. City of 3 Fresno, No. CV F 09-0802, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 58920, *17 (E.D.
4 Cal. June 25, 2009) (holding that plaintiff's success at being 5 reinstated does not distract from alleged adverse employment 6 action which would have been avoided in the absence of alleged 7 discrimination or retaliation). Accordingly, the fact that 8 plaintiff was reinstated does not preclude him from asserting 9 claims based on adverse employment action.

10 As such, the District's motion to dismiss for lack of 11 standing based on plaintiff's reinstatement is DENIED.

12 B. Wrongful Termination and Unlawful Retaliation in 13 Violation of Public Policy

14 Plaintiff's first claim for relief is against the District, 15 alleging wrongful termination in violation of public policy as 16 retaliation for plaintiff's failure to keep silent regarding the 17 investigation of the former employee. Plaintiff's nineteenth 18 cause of action is against the District for unlawful relation in 19 employment. The District contends that as a public entity, it is 20 immune from liability arising out of common law tort claims under 21 California Government Code § 815(a).

22 California Government Code § 815(a) provides, in relevant 23 part: "Except as otherwise provided by statute . . . [a] public 24 entity is not liable for any injury, whether such injury arises 25 out of an act or omission of the public entity or a public 26 employee or any other person." Cal. Gov. Code § 815(a). Section 27 811.2 provides: "'Public entity' includes the State, the Regents 28 of the University of California, a county, city, district, public

1 authority, public agency and any other political subdivision or 2 public corporation in the State." Cal. Gov. Code § 811.2. Thus, 3 "direct tort liability of public entities must be based on a 4 specific statute declaring them to be liable, or at least 5 creating some specific duty of care . . . Otherwise, the general 6 rule of immunity for public entities would be largely eroded by 7 the routine application of general tort principles." Eastburn v.
8 Reg'l Fire Prot. Auth., 31 Cal. 4th 1175, 1183 (2003).

9 Section 815(a) immunity applies to claims for wrongful 10 discharge in violation of public policy because a claim for 11 wrongful termination in violation of public policy is a common 12 law cause of action judicially created by Tameny v. Atlantic 13 Richfield Co., 27 Cal. 3d 167 (1980).<sup>13</sup> Miklosy v. Regents of 14 University of Cal., 44 Cal. 4th 876, 900 (2008) (noting that § 15 815 "bars Tameny actions against public entities."); Palmer v.
16 Regents of the Univ. Of Cal., 107 Cal. App. 4th 899, 909 (2003) 17 (holding that a claim for wrongful termination in violation of 18 public policy was barred under section 815(a) because the 19 University was a public entity); see Ross v. San Francisco Bay 20 Area Rapid Transit, 146 Cal. App. 4th 1507, 1517 (2007) (granting 21 summary judgment on claims against BART for wrongful termination 22 in violation of public policy because it had no liability 23 pursuant to § 815); Tan v. University of California, No. 06-4697, 24 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 27417, *13-14 (N.D. Cal. 2007); Dao v.

26 <sup>13</sup> Plaintiff does not cite any common law basis to support 27 his claim for unlawful retaliation in violation of public policy.
28 However, he appears to style it in the same manner as a claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy; as such, the court treats it similarly.

1 Univ. of Cal., No. C-04-2257 JCS, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16828, 2 *27-28 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 13, 2004).

4 See Eastburn v. Regional Fire Protection Authority, 98 Cal. App.
5 4th 426 (concluding that because defendants Fire Protection 6 District and others were public entities under Section 815, they 7 only owed a limited statutory duty to plaintiffs), aff'd, 31 Cal.
8 4th 1175 (2003).<sup>14</sup> As such, the District is immune from 9 liability arising out of common law tort claims under California 10 law. As claims for wrongful discharge and unlawful retaliation 11 in violation of public policy are considered common law torts 12 under California law, plaintiff's claims are barred by Section 13 815(a).<sup>15</sup>

14 For the foregoing reasons, the District's motion to dismiss 15 plaintiff's wrongful termination and unfair retaliation claims is 16 GRANTED.

17 C. Civil Conspiracy

18 Plaintiff's fourteenth cause of action is for civil 19 conspiracy against the District, Kelly, Monahan, and Rice.
20 Plaintiff bases his conspiracy claim on his unlawful retaliation 21 and wrongful termination claims. The District contends that as a 22 public entity, under California Government Code section 815, 23 plaintiff's cause of action for conspiracy is barred because the 24 underlying torts upon which he bases this claim are barred.

26 <sup>14</sup> Indeed, the court notes that plaintiff concedes that 27 the District is a "Governmental Organization" in his complaint.
(Compl. at 3, [Docket # 1-5]).

28 <sup>15</sup> In his opposition, plaintiff wholly failed to respond to defendant District's assertion of immunity.

1 "Under California law, there is no separate and distinct 2 tort cause of action for civil conspiracy." Entm't Research
3 Group v. Genesis Creative Group, 122 F.3d 1211, 1228 (9th Cir.
4 1997); see also Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia 5 Ltd., 7 Cal. 4th 503, 514 (1994) ("Conspiracy is not an 6 independent tort."). A plaintiff can only recover under a theory 7 of civil conspiracy "against a party who already owes the duty 8 and is not immune from liability based on applicable substantive 9 tort law principles." Applied Equipment Corp., 7 Cal. 4th at 10 514. Accordingly, to have a valid civil conspiracy cause of 11 action, there must be another tort upon which the plaintiff can 12 base his conspiracy claim. Entm't Research Group, 122 F.3d at 13 1228. Merely alleging underlying tort causes of action is 14 insufficient to support a conspiracy cause of action. Id.; see 15 also Hafiz v. Greenpoint Mortgage Funding, Inc., No. C 09-01729, 16 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 60818, *9 (N.D. Cal. July 16, 2009) 17 (dismissing plaintiff's civil conspiracy claim because the 18 plaintiff's underlying tort claims failed, rendering the civil 19 conspiracy claim unsupported).

20 Here, plaintiff states in his opposition papers that his 21 civil conspiracy claim is based on defendant District's "unlawful 22 retaliation" and "wrongful termination" claims.<sup>16</sup> However, as 23 the court has found that defendant District has immunity for such

---

25 <sup>16</sup> The court notes that plaintiff does not specifically 26 identify which unlawful retaliation claim he is referring to, 27 unlawful retaliation in violation of public policy or unlawful 28 retaliation in violation of FEHA. However, because there is no cognizable claim for conspiracy under FEHA, the court assumes plaintiff is referring to his claim for unlawful retaliation in violation of public policy. See Wynn v. Nat'l Broadcasting Co., Inc., 234 F. Supp. 2d 1067, 1116 (C.D. Cal. 2002).

1 claims pursuant to § 815, plaintiff's civil conspiracy claim is 2 unsupported by underlying tort causes of action.

3 Therefore, defendant's motion to dismiss plaintiff's civil 4 conspiracy claim is GRANTED.

5 D. Violation of Labor and Employment Code

6 Plaintiff's second cause of action is against the District 7 for violation of Section 1102.5 of the Labor and Employment Code.
8 The District argues that plaintiff has failed to allege enough 9 facts to support an action under Section 1102.5; specifically, 10 the District contends that plaintiff has failed to demonstrate 11 that his disclosure is related to a violation or noncompliance 12 with a federal or state statute, rule, or regulation.

13 Section 1102.5(b) states: "An employer may not retaliate 14 against an employee for disclosing information to a government or 15 law enforcement agency, where the employee has reasonable cause 16 to believe that the information discloses a violation of state or 17 federal statute, or a violation or noncompliance with a state or 18 federal rule or regulation." Further, Section 1102.5 (c) states: 19 "An employer may not retaliate against an employee for refusing 20 to participate in an activity that would result in a violation of 21 state or federal statute, or a violation or noncompliance with a 22 state or federal rule or regulation."

23 In his complaint, plaintiff broadly alleges that "he felt 24 the investigation into the termination of the former female 25 employee was not being done properly" and that he informed 26 officials about his concerns. However, it is unclear from the 27 face of the complaint what state or federal statute was or would 28 be violated. Further, the factual basis for these violations is

1 unclear. As such, plaintiff's allegations are insufficient to 2 put defendant District on notice of the claims against it and the 3 factual basis for those claims.

4 In his opposition, plaintiff identifies particular statutes
5 that he contends his employers allegedly violated, including 6 Civil Code § 43, California Penal Code § 240, and the Fair
7 Employment and Housing Act ("FEHA"), Government Code § 12900.
8 Plaintiff contends that he told various persons about the alleged 9 wrongdoing associated with the former employee, including the 10 District Board President and Vice President, Mette, Margarita, 11 and the Attorney General's office.

12 Therefore, the District's motion to dismiss plaintiff's
13 Section 1102.5 claim is GRANTED with leave to amend.

14 E. Breach of Contract and Breach of Implied Covenant of 15 Good Faith and Fair Dealing and Covenant Not to 16 Terminate

17 Plaintiff's third cause of action is for breach of the 18 implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing against the 19 District. Specifically, plaintiff alleges that defendant 20 breached the covenant of good faith and fair dealing by 21 "adversely employing" him in retaliation for reporting legal 22 violations to a governing agency. (See SAC ¶ 57.) Plaintiff's 23 fourth cause of action is for breach of implied covenant not to 24 terminate without good cause. Plaintiff's seventh cause of 25 action is against the District and the Union for breach of 26 contract. The District contends that as a public entity, it is 27 immune from plaintiff's claim because in California, civil 28 service employees cannot state a cause of action for breach of 1 contract or breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair

2 dealing.

3 "It is well settled in California that public employment is 4 not held by contract but by statute and that, insofar as the 5 duration of such employment is concerned, no employee has a 6 vested contractual right to continue in employment beyond the 7 time or contrary to the terms and conditions fixed by law."

8 Miller v. State, 18 Cal. 3d 808, 813 (1977); see also Bernstein 9 v. Lopez, 321 F.3d 903 (9th Cir. 2003) ("[P]ublic employment in 10 California is, in general, regulated by statute, the rights of a 11 public employee are statutory, and 'no employee has a vested 12 contractual right to continue in employment beyond the time or 13 contrary to the terms and conditions fixed by law.'"). "This 14 rule applies at all levels of government: state; county; or 15 special district." Summers v. City of Cathedral City, 225 Cal.
16 App. 3d 1047 (1990); see Scott v. Solano County Health & Soc.
17 Servs. Dep't, 459 F. Supp. 2d 959, 966-67 (E.D. Cal. 2006)
18 (dismissing claims for violation of the covenant of good faith 19 and fair dealing brought by a county employee).

20 "Since the good faith covenant is an implied term of a 21 contract, the existence of a contractual relationship is thus a 22 prerequisite for any action for breach of the covenant."
23 Shoemaker v. Myers, 52 Cal. 3d 1, 23-24 (1990). Furthermore, the 24 "statutory provisions controlling the terms and conditions of 25 civil service employment cannot be circumvented by purported 26 contracts in conflict therewith." Id. at 814. Indeed, the Ninth 27 Circuit, in reviewing California case law, has recognized "that 28 neither an express or an implied contract can restrict the 1 reasons for, or the manner of, termination of public employment

2 provided by California statute." Bernstein, 321 F.3d at 906.
3 Moreover, the Ninth Circuit has recently held that a breach of 4 contract claim is not a viable remedy when an MOU governs the 5 terms of employment between a civil service employee and a public 6 agency. Gibson v. Office of the AG, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 20054, 7 *19 (9th Cir. Mar. 18, 2009) (affirming the district court's 8 dismissal pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) of a breach of contract claim 9 between an attorney and her public employer, the Office of the 10 Attorney General, allegedly based on an MOU between the employer 11 and the plaintiff's labor unions).

12 As an employee of the Sacramento Metropolitan Fire District, 13 plaintiff is a public officer and therefore his employment is 14 bound by statute, not contract. See Humbert v. Castro Valley 15 Fire Protection Dist., 214 Cal. App. 2d 1, 13 (1963) (holding 16 that like police officers, employees of the fire district are 17 public officers as they have been delegated a public duty, the 18 performance of which is a part of the governmental function of 19 the political unit for which they are acting as agents). Because 20 the existence of a contractual relationship is a prerequisite for 21 any action for breach of contract or breach of implied covenants, 22 and because the relevant statutory provisions cannot be 23 circumvented, plaintiff cannot state a cause of action for breach 24 of contract, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and 25 fair dealing, or for breach of an implied covenant not to 26 terminate without good cause.

1           Therefore, the District's motion to dismiss plaintiff's 2 breach of contract claim and breach of implied covenant claims is

4           F. Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress

5           Plaintiff's eighth cause of action is against the District
6 for intentional infliction of emotional distress. The District 7 contends that as a public entity, it is immune from liability for 8 this common-law cause of action under Gov. Code section 815.

9           "[C]laims for . . . intentional infliction of emotional 10 distress against public entities and public employees fall well 11 within the [Cal. Gov. Code 815] immunities' borders." Davison v.
12 Santa Barbara High Sch. Dist., 48 F. Supp. 2d 1225, 1232 (C.D.
13 Cal. 1998); see also Bragg v. E. Bay Reg'l Park Dist., No. C-02-14 3585 PJH, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 23423, *23 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 19, 15 2003) (holding that as a public entity, the District was immune 16 from liability for intentional infliction of emotional distress);
17 Harmston v. City & County of San Francisco, No. C 07-01186, 2007
18 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 74891, *21-22 (holding that where the plaintiff 19 has failed to specifically allege any applicable statute that 20 makes the public entity directly liable for intentional 21 infliction of emotional distress, under section 815 the public 22 entity is not liable); see also Doe v. Lassen Cmty. College
23 Dist., 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 95866 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 27, 2007) 24 (noting that several California district courts have held that 25 Cal. Gov. Code § 815 acts as a specific bar to IIED claims 26 against public employees or entities).

27           Accordingly, as a public entity, the District is immune from 28 liability for intentional infliction of emotional distress

1 pursuant to Gov. Code § 815.<sup>17</sup> Therefore, the District's motion 2 to dismiss plaintiff's intentional infliction of emotional 3 distress claim is GRANTED.

4 G. Unlawful Retaliation in Violation of FEHA

5 Plaintiff's sixth cause of action is against the District
6 for violation of FEHA, Government Code § 12940(h). Specifically, 7 plaintiff contends that the District took adverse action against 8 him in retaliation for his complaints about unlawful treatment
9 during his employment with the District and his investigation
10 into the former employee. The District contends that plaintiff 11 should be barred from asserting any claims based upon his 12 termination because his DFEH complaint only included his 13 suspension. Alternatively, defendant District contends that 14 plaintiff's complaint lacks any alleged facts of illegal 15 discrimination and requests a more definite statement should the 16 court deny its motion to dismiss.

17 "Under California law an employee must exhaust the . . .
18 administrative remedy provided by the FEHA by filing an 19 administrative complaint with the DFEH and obtaining the DFEH's 20 notice of right to sue before bringing suit on a cause of action 21 under the FEHA or seeking the relief provided under the FEHA."
22 Howell v. City of Fresno, No. CV-F-07-371 OWW/TAG, 2007 U.S.
23 Dist. LEXIS 40169, *26-27 (E.D. Cal. May 22, 2007) (citing Rojo 24 v. Kliger, 52 Cal. 3d 65, 88 (1990)). "To exhaust his or her 25 administrative remedies as to a particular act made unlawful by 26 the Fair Employment and Housing Act, the claimant must specify

27 28 <sup>17</sup> Again, in his opposition, plaintiff wholly failed to respond to defendant District's assertion of immunity.

1 that act in the administrative complaint, even if the complaint
2 does specify other cognizable wrongful acts." Id. at *27.
3 Nevertheless, the "general principle at work in these cases is 4 that the scope of a civil complaint alleging a violation of § 5 12940(a) is limited by the scope of the administrative 6 complaint." Steffens, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 36006, at *12; see 7 also Rodriguez v. Airborne Express, 265 F.3d 890, 897 (9th Cir.
8 2001) ("Allegations in the civil complaint that fall outside the 9 scope of the administrative charge are barred for failure to 10 exhaust.").

11 "The 'scope' of the administrative charge is defined by what 12 a subsequent investigation may reveal." Steffens, 2009 U.S.
13 Dist. LEXIS 36006, at *13. "When an employee seeks judicial 14 relief for incidents not listed in his original charge to the 15 [EEOC OR DFEH], the judicial complaint nevertheless may encompass 16 any discrimination like or reasonably related to the allegations 17 of the [EEOC or DFEH] charge, including new acts occurring during 18 the pendency of the charge before the EEOC [or DFEH]." Wilson-19 Combs v. Cal. Dep't of Consumer Affairs, 555 F. Supp. 2d 1110, 20 1115 (E.D. Cal. 2008); see also Okoli v. Lockheed Technical 21 Operations Co., 36 Cal. App. 4th 1607, 1615 (1995) ("Essentially, 22 if an investigation of what was charged in the EEOC would 23 necessarily uncover other incidents that were not charged, the 24 latter incidents could be included in a subsequent action.") "In 25 the context of the FEHA, the failure to exhaust an administrative 26 remedy is a jurisdictional, not a procedural defect." Id.

27 Plaintiff's FEHA claim arises out of both his termination 28 and suspension. Thus, to the extent that plaintiff relies on

1 separate acts for his FEHA claim, he must have filed a complaint
2 with the DFEH for both incidents in order to bring a claim 3 against the District, unless the two acts are "reasonably 4 related." In his complaint, plaintiff alleges that he exhausted
5 the administrative remedy by filing an administrative complaint
6 with the DFEH for the suspension he received in November 2008.
7 (Compl. ¶ 42.) However, plaintiff alleges that both his 8 suspension and termination arose because of his investigation 9 into the former employee. (See Compl. ¶¶ 26, 44.) As such, 10 taking plaintiff's allegations as true and drawing all reasonable 11 inferences therefrom, the court finds that these events are 12 "reasonably related" and thus, plaintiff's DFEH claim for his 13 suspension exhausted the administrative remedies requirement.

14 In order to establish a prima facie case on a FEHA 15 retaliation claim, a plaintiff must demonstrate that (1) "he 16 engaged in a protected activity," (2) "his employer subjected him 17 to adverse employment action," and (3) "there is a causal link 18 between the protected activity and the employer's action."

19 McAlindin v. County of San Diego, 192 F.3d 1226, 1238 (9th Cir.
20 1999) (citations and quotations omitted). Specifically, FEHA 21 makes it unlawful for an employer "to discharge, expel, or 22 otherwise discriminate against any person because the person has 23 opposed any practices forbidden under [the statute] or because 24 the person has filed a complaint, testified, or assisted in any 25 proceeding under [the statute]." Cal. Gov't Code § 12940(h).

26 In his complaint, plaintiff alleges that "adverse action" 27 was taken against him in retaliation for his complaints of 28 discriminatory treatment and for his investigation into the

1 former employee. In his opposition papers, plaintiff clarifies
2 that he was suspended for preserving evidence of investigation 3 into sexual assault and abuse of the former employee at the 4 workplace. Taking plaintiff's allegations as true and drawing 5 all reasonable inferences therefrom, plaintiff alleges that he 6 was terminated and suspended for opposing and complaining about 7 sexual harassment of a female employee at the workplace. This is 8 sufficient to apprise defendant District of the claim against it 9 and the factual bases upon which it rests.

10 Accordingly, defendant's motion to dismiss plaintiff's FEHA 11 claim is DENIED.

12 H. Violation of Fourteenth Amendment

13 Plaintiff's twentieth cause of action is against the 14 District for violation of procedural due process rights under the 15 Fifth Amendment arising out of the failure to be heard before the 16 appropriate tribunal prior to his termination. Plaintiff 17 concedes that he improperly brought this claim pursuant to the 18 Fifth Amendment, but seeks leave to amend to assert a Fourteenth 19 Amendment claim for the same violation.<sup>18</sup> Accordingly, defendant 20 District's motion to dismiss is GRANTED with leave to amend.

21 I. Motion to Strike

22 Defendant District moves to strike all detailed reference to 23 the former employee. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(f)
24 enables the court by motion by a party or by its own initiative 25 to "order stricken from any pleading . . . any redundant, 26

27 <sup>18</sup> In its reply, defendant District does not address 28 plaintiff's motion to amend this claim. The court interprets this silence as a non-opposition.

1 immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter." The function of 2 a 12(f) motion is to avoid the time and expense of litigating
3 spurious issues. Fantasy, Inc. v. Fogerty, 984 F.2d 1524, 1527
4 (9th Cir. 1993), rev'd on other grounds, 510 U.S. 517 (1994); see 5 also 5A Charles A. Wright & Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice
6 and Procedure § 1380 (2d ed. 1990). Rule 12(f) motions are 7 generally viewed with disfavor and not ordinarily granted because 8 they are often used to delay and because of the limited 9 importance of the pleadings in federal practice. Bureerong v.
10 Uvawas, 922 F. Supp. 1450, 1478 (C.D. Cal. 1996). A motion to 11 strike should not be granted unless it is absolutely clear that 12 the matter to be stricken could have no possible bearing on the 13 litigation. Lilley v. Charren, 936 F. Supp. 708, 713 (N.D. Cal.
14 1996).

15 In this case, the court cannot find that the factual 16 allegations pertaining to the former employee are redundant, 17 immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous. Rather, many of 18 plaintiff's claims arise out of his reaction to the circumstances 19 surrounding the investigation into the former employee's 20 complaint. Accordingly, defendant's motion to strike is DENIED.
